Circus day dawns with an indele-ble stir in the air that sets the small boy's heart to beating faster, and awakens pleasant memories to the sights of the graybeards who have not forgot their childhood's happy days.
The people of this city and coun-tymen will undoubtedly be treated to a tremendous surprise in the above show, an event has it that it is not only a sight to see this evening, but it will relate these features that make it such a welcome visitor to past years, viz: its freedom from all sentiment of gaudiness and fakery, the high-class moral entertainment afforded and its innumerable methods of doing business.
John H. Sparks and his magnificent amusement have not only ventured to a field of greater endeavor, but to so doing, it is said, have outdistanced their rivals to a manner that leaves nothing to the imagination with the exception of the advantage of being closer to the show. All new to the master of equipment and presentation, and still retaining the wonderful trained with animal cunning, which has done much to make this show so popular. It is the most complete and entertaining enterprise of its kind to be seen in the world today.
The big grandstand, while a feature of marvelous beauty and extraordinary capacity, is but a slight surprise of the great pump, and the amazing billboards to be seen under the grandstand for the entire show. In other words the show is not all on the surface.

HEART THRILLING GEMS.

ROGER AND I.
BY JULIAN S. CUTLER.

Well, Roger, my dear old doggie, they say that your race is run; And our jolly tramps together up and down the world are done; You're only a dog, old fellow; a dog;
and you've had your day;
But never a friend of all my friends has been truer than you always.

We've had glorious times together in fields and pastures fair; In storm and sunny weather we have rumped without a care;
And however men have treated me, though foul or fair their deal—However many the friends that failed me, I've found you true as steel.

That's right, my dear old fellow, look up with your knowing eye, And lick my hand with your loving tongue that never has told a lie; And don't be afraid, old doggie, if your time has come to go, For somewhere out in the great Unknown there's a place for you, I know.

Then don't you worry, old comrade; and don't you fear to die; For out in that fairer country I will find you by and by;
And I'll stand by you old fellow, and our love shall surely win, For never a heaven shall harbor me, where they won't let Roger in.

When I reach that city glorious, be lieve me, I'll not forget you; I'll tell the waiting folk, Just come and stand outside the gate, and wag your tail and bark—I'll hear your voice, and I'll know it, and I'll come to the gate and say,
"Saint Peter, that's my dog out there, you must let him come this way."

And then if the Saint refuses, I'll go to the One above, And say: "Old Roger is at the gate, with his heart full of love; and there isn't a shining angel of all the heavenly host Who ever lived a nobler life than he,
in the earthly land."

Then I know the gate will open, and you will come frisking in,
And we'll roam fair fields together, in that country free from sin.
So never you mind, old Roger, if your
time has come to go; You're here true to me, I'll be true to you—and the Lord is good, we know.

You are only a dog, old fellow; a dog,
and you've had your day—
With I'm getting there myself, old fellow, and I haven't long to stay.
The good Lord is not old, and I'm bound to stand by you,
and I'll come to the gate and say,
"Saint Peter, that's my dog out there,
you must let him come this way."

OLD AND NEW
Long time the parts parted in the house,
Old times old love old friendship and old wine.
Why should the old be forgotten and grained?
Turn to the new class class

Give me strong, new friends when the old prove weak Or fall me in the darkest hour of need,
Why perish with the ship that springs a leak
Or lean upon a reed?

Give me new love, warm, palpitating, sweet,
When all the grace and beauty leave the old;
When, like a rose, it withers at my feet or, like a heart, grows cold.

Give me new times, bright with a prosperous cheer,
In place of old tear-blinded, burdened days;
I hold a smit present far more dear And worthy of my praise.

When the old crowds are breadbare and worn through,
And all too narrow for the broadening east, Give me the fine, firm texture of the new,
Fair, beautiful and whole!
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox in Indianapolis Press.

ONCE IN A WHILE.
Once in a while the sun shines out And the arching skies are perfect blue;
Once in a while, 'mid clouds of dole, Hope's forest stars come peeping through;
Our paths lead down to the meadows fair
Where the sweetest blossoms nod and smile,
And we lay aside our cross of care
Once in a while.

Once in a while within our own We clasp the hand of a steadfast friend;
Once in a while we hear a tone of love, with the heart's own voice to blend;
And the dream of all our dreams come true,
And on life's way is a golden smile, Each shining flower is hushed with dew,
Once in a while.

Once in a while in the desert sands We find a spot of the fairest green; Once in a while from where we stand The hills of Paradise are seen, And a perfect joy in our hearts we hold,
A joy that the world cannot steal;
We trade earth's dress for the gown of gold,
Once in a while.
—Nathan Waterman.

A Safe, Reliable Remedy for Worms in Children.

If your child is thin, nervous, restless at night, looks for worms, and if present, don't delay using the safe and proper remedy, L. F. Atwood's Medicine or Bitters.
"I have raised seven children to manhood and womanhood, keeping them well by using the True L. F. Atwood Medicine or Bitters. I find them a safe and excellent remedy for worms with which so many children are tormented." Mrs. G. A. Townsend, Naples, Maine.
"My little girl used to have worms and would be sick three or four days at a time. I began the use of the true L. F. Medicine and she has not had a spell since." Mrs. Ida M. Nason, Cincinnatus, Me.

FEEDING POTATOES TO STOCK

They Tend to Increase the Milk Flow When Fed to Cows With Alfalfa.

Potatoes may be fed to cows and hogs when the market price is comparatively low. It is not considered wise to use them for either of these animals if a reasonable price can be obtained for them in the market. It is better to sell them and purchase something else. Twenty pounds of raw potatoes per day per cow is considered quite enough; if more than this the butter has a tallowy appearance—that is, it makes it extremely hard and somewhat brittle.

For pigs it is better to cook the potatoes and mix them with corn chop, middlings, etc. At the Wisconsin experiment station potatoes were cooked in an open kettle, using as little water as possible, and cornmeal added to form a thick mash, which was eaten by the pigs with great relish. Cornmeal wet with water was fed to the second lot for comparison. Results were as follows: Four hundred and forty pounds of cornmeal fed alone produced 100 pounds of gain; 202 pounds of cornmeal with 788 pounds of potatoes weighed before cooking produced 190 pounds of gain. From this we learn that 788 pounds of potatoes when fed to pigs after being cooked effected a saving of 178 pounds of cornmeal, 442 pounds of potatoes taking the place of 100 pounds of cornmeal. The results of this experiment were confirmed by several other stations and by scientists in Europe.
Potatoes have a tendency to increase the flow of milk when fed with alfalfa. They are of a succulent nature, a very desirable form of feed for the dairy cow.

BOG SPAVIN.

It is Usually the Result of Sprains and Bruises and Needs Careful Attention.

Bog spavin is a round, smooth tumor at the front and on the inside of the hock. It is the result of sprains, bruises or other injuries. When these injuries occur too much joint oil is secreted, causing a bulging of the ligament. Lameness seldom accompanies a bog spavin. If lameness be present other structures are certain to be affected, and some pain and heat will be noticed, together with a stiffness of the joint.
Treatment consists of applications of cold water to the affected parts.

Bog Spavin.

and a lotion made of two tablespoonfuls of acetate of lead in a quart of water. A blister made of one teaspoonful of biiodide of mercury and four tablespoonfuls of lard, rubbed in a little with the fingers and repeated in ten days or two weeks and continued for some months, will correct the trouble. Wash the part having received the blister twenty-four hours after application. It is also advisable to tie the horse's head with the blister on, so that he cannot bite the part.

Heaping Manure Wasteful.
Aribing manure in heaps is objectable for several reasons. The labor of handling is increased, there is danger from loss of decomposition and leaching, the manure is not uniformly distributed, the spots beneath the heap being more thoroughly manured on account of leaching.
Working manure in very small heaps is less objectionable, providing the heaps are carefully covered with earth and not allowed to lie too long.

LIVESTOCK NOTES

Sheep should be turned out on every nice day. Lambs should not be allowed to get chilled. Their feet should be kept clean and free from mud.
When the hogs are watered with patent water they should be kept clean and sweet. A lump of quinine dropped into the barrel occasionally will keep it pure.
Little pigs may be kept from danger of choking by the mother when she has down by having a tender made of a wooden, half or pole, securely fastened, say, eight inches from the wall and the same distance from the floor.

THINK IT OVER

Would the ablest business men in the country have a bank account if there was no advantage or convenience in it? Would they have been able to reach their present commanding position if they had spent half their time worrying about the safety of the money they had made?

THE RUMFORD NATIONAL BANK

invites you to open an account as they did. The same advantages they found in so doing will accrue to you if you accept the invitation.

THE RUMFORD NATIONAL BANK, RUMFORD, ME.
